

Title: Wave Management

Since the new season started I have had troubles getting a clean bounce back after I crash the wave. A large portion of the minions die or ends up basically pushing back into the other player. Is this due to the minion changes or am I doing something wrong???

Crash the wave so it aggros the tower before their minion wave can walk in front of it and intercept your own wave.

Minions do more damage to each other so everyone muscle memory is off right now.

My impression is that slow push is harder to do, as the enemy minions die too fast.

2 wave stacking seems to be early patch meta (looking at high elo streamers and such).
