

Title: Wave management in the first few levels

Score:

--- POST CONTENT ---

How do players like Dopa decide what to do with the wave in the first few levels? If your champion is melee you can't contest it so you have to let it push towards you, but in ranged vs ranged matchups dopa sometimes slowpushes the wave and sometimes lets the enemy push it. Or even in ranged vs melee matchups sometimes he slowpushes and sometimes (generally after a bounce) lets the wave come towards him and freezes it.

how does he decide what to do and how can I implement it into my own game?

btw from level 7-8 onwards should i just shove the wave (almost) no matter what? i mean is it from level 7-8 that you generally stop caring about wave management and you shove every wave or it is earlier/later?