

Title: How should I be handling wave management in general in the top lane (Bronze player)

Score:

--- POST CONTENT ---

I know it's dependent on matchup, but I want to make sure I'm being as effective as I can. I usually try to get prio for lvl 2 to trade, and then try to crash the wave at lvl 2. Is that correct? Or does it vary too much? I know you don't want to mindlessly push the wave. All help is greatly appreciated ?.

--- TOP COMMENTS ---

[Comment 1 | Score: 2]

If you win lvl 1, you get prio. If they do not contest, you get prio. If you don't win level 1, you have to respect. Simple as that.

After that it's super situational. Are you also interested in wave management past first two waves? Would help if we knew your pool, and if you want to go really in depth, a replay.

[Comment 2 | Score: 1]

Well, I have the most experience with Aatrox. I bounce around too much honestly. I like Aatrox, Ambessa, and Urgot the most. I would love to know what to do after the first two waves!

[Comment 3 | Score: 1]

Wave management realistically is not something that you can just learn via reddit comments. The match-ups in lane and the jungle play a part in your strategy.