

Title: Unbreakable Mental

Score:

--- POST CONTENT ---

Just had a nightmare of a game playing Ezreal with a Zilean where we were completely off, I finished the laning phase 0/4/0. He spent the whole game following me instead of roaming and double bombing and 1 shotting any wave I tried to farm. I was so behind and he kept trying to tilt me and I was brought nearly to my limits because there was nothing I could do to stop him from denying me waves over and over.

But I refused to give in to some random toxic support, I stayed focused, farmed each and every minion I could get my hands on despite Zilean's bombs, did my best in each teamfight and slowly gained strength, even though they managed to break into our base we were able to turn the game around and I went from 0/4/0 in lane to 8/6/14 and second most damage, completely outdamaging enemy adc. After the game I saw a teammate defending me in the lobby chat and reprimanding Zilean for apparently constantly flaming me the whole game (I have chat disabled so I wouldn't know).

This was yet another reminder for me that whenever I'm about to give up, no matter what others do to try and tilt me, if I maintain an unbreakable mental I can come back and win :)

--- TOP COMMENTS ---

[Comment 1 | Score: 996]

Mental an important hidden skill

[Comment 2 | Score: 261]

Definitely good mentality. People give up way too easily in many games. It's not until like high diamond where a team really knows how to use an early lead to close out a game. All the idiots spamming ff or 15 after first blood need to just relax.

Your opponents will throw if you give them the opportunity. Just try to play it out.

The only time I remember truly tilting is a game where my sup and jungle apparently were squabbling from their previous game. My sup sells his items at lvl 2 and leaves lane, just following jungle around trying to steal camps. I'm left 1v2 and my fking team types "bot gap" FML

[Comment 3 | Score: 31]

A lot of people are mistakenly under the impression that they want to climb. So many players would rather sabotage their own team, be it verbally or with straight up throwing like your Zilean, then ever see a win. They prefer the brief satisfaction of feeding their ego over helping their team and then they get on here and complain about being hard stuck.

"gUyS, I sO mUcH bEtTeR tHaN mUh tEaM", not mentioning that they are the worst teammate in existence because KDA is the only metric they value in League.

[Comment 4 | Score: 186]

nicely done. Rarely see the adc the one with iron mental. But yeah, Zilean can pretty much take all your cs at around lvl 7-8. Hope he at least was helpful during teamfights and perma sped you up.

I am currently trying to learn Zilean because he is fun and smth different to the sups i usually play and accidentally doublebombing the wave during laning phase is my biggest nightmare for him.

[Comment 5 | Score: 46]

[removed]