

Title: Dragon control starts before the dragon actually spawns

Score:

--- POST CONTENT ---

If you want to kill dragons and control the dragon area for vision you have to start before the dragon spawns. If you try to run to dragon as it spawns you will be running into fog of war and likely the other team. Running in blind puts you at a disadvantage and the enemy team at an advantage. This discrepancy can lead to lost team fights that feel like they should have been won.

If you want to control the vision around dragon you have to buy control wards and use them around dragon. That includes every player and lane and not just support. Winning a team fight because you control vision is worth 75g

STOP GOING TO DRAGON 5 SECONDS BEFORE IT SPAWNS AND FACECHECKING TO SEE IF YOU HAVE DRAGON CONTROL. PLAN TO GO THERE 1:30 BEFORE SPAWN. PUSH OUT BOT AND MID! BUY WARDS!

Edit needed for some people apparently: league is complex and large. Every post about general advice cant contain all the minute details about wave management, item timings, team strengths, and lane matchups. Those are more specific topics for different posts. This is general advice to get low level players started on the ideas of map control. They can learn to do it safely and effectively based on game state and lane state in a different post relating to those things

--- TOP COMMENTS ---

[Comment 1 | Score: 103]

When we group at drag at 0:25 left and someone backs to buy a dagger

[Comment 2 | Score: 410]

I wish people understood that when im pinging the dragon timer for spawning in 1.5 - 1 minute that means I?m asking for everyone to wrap up whatever they?re doing and make their way to atleast the general vicinity of the dragon pit. It?s so frustrating when people are doing shit like chasing people around top side jungle and then showing up 10 seconds late wondering why we?re at a disadvantage and they?re in the pit already zoning us away from the drake.

[Comment 3 | Score: 24]

I came out of a game where enemy mid, jgler and adc has prio cos my team decided to feed their ass off early. I said not to go they have prio and if they do, not only do they get drag, but they get free gld from the kills. 3 went. 900g extra. Game was over from there. Score was like 24/4. My score (ADC) was 2/4/something, I just lost all interest after 2 whole mins of ally has been slain. No one understands this in pisslow.